

Why Train at Northwest Flight Service?

Choosing the right flight school is an important decision. No matter how you look at it, quality flight training is not cheap, but we cannot emphasize enough that cost is far less important than value, and cheaper is rarely better when it comes to flight training. At Northwest Flight Service we are committed to providing the highest quality flight instruction to produce safe and proficient pilots who meet and exceed FAA standards. Our experienced flight instructors are held to high standards, and they are here because they love to fly, and they love to teach.

Our instructors follow a structured syllabus, and as an FAA Part 61 school, we can customize each course to fit the individual needs of our students. We are an award-winning Cirrus Aircraft Partner and have been designated as a Platinum Cirrus Training Center and Cirrus Authorized Service Center. In 2017 Northwest Flight Service was selected as the Cirrus Training Center of the Year for North America. In 2018 and 2019 we received Cirrus Approach Safety Awards, and in 2022 our Chief Pilot was selected as the Cirrus Standardized Instructor Pilot of the Year. We have been training people to fly for 11+ years and our current facility was built in 2021 with our student's needs in mind. Our 3 private briefing rooms, conference room, and classroom provide a distraction-free environment where you can focus on learning. We have 2 state-of-the-art flight simulators that are great money-saving tools and give us the ability to train in a variety of situations and environments.

Our airplanes are maintained by our own FAA certified and factory-trained mechanics. Safety is always our #1 priority. In addition, we have line service staff that keep our airplanes clean and fuel them before/after every flight.

We are here for you and customer service is very important to us. We want you to feel like you are a part of something special....because you are! Our office is open Mon – Sat, 9am – 5pm but training happens 24/7/365.

We believe there is no substitute for high-quality, structured flight training by experienced professionals. We love what we do, and we show that by offering you the very best. Give us a call to begin your flight training journey!
